

Stange Creative Enterprises

Consulting Service

Services

- Editorial services (poetry, fiction, scientific writing, etc.)
- Publishing (digital, commercial, etc.)
- Digital art (creation, distribution, etc.)
- Internet (webpage design, hosting, etc.)
- Public presentations (lecture style, PowerPoint, etc.)

If you need advice or assistance in any of the above domains, email Ken@Stange.com with the header "Stange Creative Enterprises". Briefly describe the service required. There is no charge or obligation associated with this initial email.

If we feel we can be of some significant help you will receive by email an estimate of the cost of the service required. Then if you are still interested, details and negotiation of the cost of the service can be worked out by email. We will not offer services we are not absolutely certain of having the competence to deliver—and within a reasonable period of time.

However, if we don't feel we can be of service in any way or do not have the time to supply the service requested, you will be informed promptly. Furthermore if possible, we will refer you to someone we feel might be able to meet your needs. These referrals will only be to people we personally know to be knowledgeable in your area of concern. We do not charge for referrals, nor are we reimbursed by those who we recommend as being of potential help with your problem. We do this as non-profit public service. The Internet is all about people making mutually beneficial connections.

About us.

We are a family with diverse and very eclectic interests and skills and contacts.

- Ken Stange is a Professor Emeritus at Nipissing University, an author, and visual artist. (CV at KenStange.com/cv)
- Ursula Stange is a retired university lecturer in Classics, English and Philosophy; and a photographer.
- Christiaan Stange is a web page designer, programmer, and runs an Internet hosting service.